

MANAGING UMBILICAL SOLUTIONS

Oceaneering Umbilical Solutions (OUS) maintains a world class project management organization that consistently performs high-level project execution that meets the client's scope, quality, delivery requirements and expectations while effectively identifying and managing all project risks.

Our Expertise

Oceaneering's project management organization draws from a global resource pool of over 20 experienced and professional Project Managers. Our Project Management team applies its industry knowledge and skill set to effectively manage subsea projects and deliver value-added solutions to our clients, on a global scale.

People are the most important asset in Oceaneering's project management organization

Key Capabilities

Our project management organization continues to develop proprietary processes, tools and capabilities to maximise the value we create for our clients while continuing to improve our capacity to support them.

Project Management Talent:

People are the most important asset in our project management organization. Our team consists of highly experienced, professional project managers that are PRINCE2 or PMP certified.

Project Schedule Management:

The project management team applies a proprietary, multi-project, multi-resource Integrated Master Project Scheduling (IMPS) system to assure our accurate and timely execution of all project-related activities that support our clients' goals.

Project Risk Management:

Our global project teams employ a world-class Risk Management System that effectively identifies, assesses and mitigates the client's unique risks, minimizing unwanted impact on the project. Our team believes the essence of project management is risk management.

MANAGING UMBILICAL SOLUTIONS

Project Management Methodology:

Our project management team utilizes established project management methodologies and processes based on proven industry standard best practices (PMBOK) to manage projects for our clients.

Project Interface Management:

The project management organization has proven experience in effectively managing integrated projects across the Oceaneering landscape. This capability enables our clients to focus on their core competencies and lets us manage peripheral interfaces. We aim to be a low maintenance supplier to our clients.

“The OUS project manager and team have been doing an excellent job at keeping us up to date on the progress, invoicing, schedule, action items, etc. They are really standing out from the other vendors on the project.” Client quote
